

TEACHING ORAL SKILLS

In English and in Spanish Lessons

IN ENGLISH LESSONS

- I have used a programme for tablets or mobiles called TCStudio.
- We were learning about animals and as a final task for the project we created a story based on a book called Where's my mummy? where a baby animal is lost and it is looking for its mummy.
- We prepared the masks in arts and in literacy we prepared the dialogues.
- This app is similar to the one I used in Spanish. It is a little more difficult to use but the final product has more quality.
- One option of this app is to use a big green cloth hung behind what you are going to record. First you have to look for a photograph, drawing or even a video to add for the background, so you can see it instead of the green cloth.
- This is an example of the final result:

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Ho4jN0ZQCB0>

IN SPANISH LESSONS

- I have used a different app called Green screen live video...
- It is easier to use but the quality of the video is worse.
- We were learning interview and interrogative sentences so they prepared the interview previously. The people they had to interview were their own classmates. The day we recorded they brought special clothes and accessories such as hairbands, ties...
- Example:

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=zkeXThMNpag>

THE END

Marta Bielsa. Second grade

